

WILSON SOON TO RECOGNIZE REGIME IN MEXICO

Wrangling Over Corpse of MacSweeney

DRASTIC RULES MADE BY BRITAIN FOR THE FUNERAL

British Troops Will Line Route of the Procession to See That the Regulations Are Obeyed.

BITTER RESENTMENT EXPRESSED BY IRISH

For a Time After the Body Reached Cork It Seemed That It Would Be Left for British Government to Dispose Of. All Ireland in Mourning.

Queenstown, October 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—The body of Terence MacSweeney, the late lord mayor of Cork, was landed here today from the steamer Rathmore. It was received by the Urban council and thousands of the city's inhabitants. A crowd of armed troops was present.

Before the arrival of the Rathmore, a military officer visited Bishop Cloyne and notified him that if the body were taken to the cathedral no processions through the streets in military formation would be permitted and no republican flag or emblems would be allowed on the coffin.

As the tug sailed with the body of Lord Mayor MacSweeney, Bishop Cloyne gave the signal and the 2,000 persons gathered at the quay knelt, bowed their heads and recited prayers.

Body Reaches Cork.

Cork, October 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—The body of Terence MacSweeney, late lord mayor of this city, arrived here on board an admiralty tug at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The tug, whose flag was flown at half-mast, docked at the customs house quay. Enormous crowds lined the opposite quays and the nearby bridges.

The government authorities in Cork immediately notified Deputy Lord Mayor Callaghan and the bishop of Cork that the body should be permitted to stay at the funeral and that neither drilling, uniforms or republican arm badges would be allowed.

The only Irish republican flag in the procession, it was stated, must be placed on the coffin, and the procession must start at 7 o'clock this evening. The mourners were accompanied by Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Féin, and Count Plunkett, a well-known Sinn Féin leader and member of parliament for North Roscommon. A delegation from the city council met the mourners at the station.

Afterward the councilmen went into consultation with MacSweeney's relatives and Mr. Griffith and Count Plunkett at the city hall. The belief was expressed that the relatives were inclined to leave the disposal of the body to the late lord mayor to the government to do with it as it might see fit.

During the conference the coffin was transferred from the tug to the dock and the tug departed on its return to Queenstown.

For several hours the crowd prevailed on the government to allow the body to be taken to the city hall. After a prolonged conference in the city hall, however, it was decided to claim it, and shortly after 3 o'clock this evening a company of Irish volunteers and relatives of the dead lord mayor went to the dock and took possession of the coffin.

Immediately afterward the coffin was removed to the city hall, where it will lie in state until the funeral is held on Sunday. There was an impressive entry into the city hall and the body was placed in the city hall and laid out on the bier.

South Ireland in Mourning.

Dublin, October 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—Over a bare catafalque in the proscenium of the city hall, the venerable Archbishop Walsh celebrated a low requiem mass for the repose of the soul of the late lord mayor of Cork, Terence MacSweeney, whose body, unaccompanied save for a guard of English police, was at the same time being landed from the steamer Rathmore toward Cork.

The relatives and other mourners, who refused to accompany the body, which had been removed from the funeral train to the Cape Fear, last

Mayor Key Is Enjoined From Turning On Heat In the City Buildings

Action of Georgia Railway and Power Company Follows Clash Between Company and Atlanta Officials.

SEALS BROKEN FRIDAY ON STEAM HEAT VALVE

Within a Few Hours, However, Georgia Railway and Power Company Had Cut the Heat Off Again.

After locking with padlock and chain the steam-heat valves on which the seals were broken Friday morning by Mayor Key to obtain heat in city buildings for which he had refused to sign contracts, the Georgia Railway and Power company at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon filed an injunction in Fulton superior court asking that the mayor be enjoined from again breaking the closed connections and using steam without payment or entering into a contract.

Judge George L. Bell granted a temporary restraining order and set a hearing for next Saturday, November 6. The injunction was filed by the law firms of Rosser, Stott, Phillips & Hopkins and Colquhoun & Covert.

Thus the welcome sound of steam hissing from the radiators at city hall, Carnegie library, the police station and the fire stations, was hushed again within a few short hours after a few effective blows from an instrument in the mayor's hands.

City of Atlanta Sinks Cape Fear, 19 Men Missing

Missing Men Are Members of Crew of the Cape Fear—Steamers Collide in Narragansett Bay.

Newport, R. I., October 29.—The concrete steamer Cape Fear, a United States shipping board vessel, was sunk in the deepest part of Narragansett bay tonight in a collision with the Savannah Line steamship City of Atlanta. At a late hour nineteen of the crew of the City of Atlanta, a thirty-four of the sunken vessel were unaccounted for. The Cape Fear sank in three minutes about half way between Castle Hill, on the Newport shore, and Rose Island, going down bow first in 125 fathoms.

Atlanta Badly Damaged.

The Cape Fear was outward bound from Providence for Norfolk in ballast, and carried only her crew, as did the City of Atlanta, which was bound from Savannah for Providence with a cargo of pig iron. Just how the accident happened was not definitely determined tonight, especially as the weather was clear, with only a slight cloudiness and a light sea running.

The City of Atlanta's bow was badly damaged, the result of hitting the Cape Fear amidships, but although there was a 7-foot hole above the main deck, the bulkheads held and she anchored in the bay.

Of the fifteen men saved from the Cape Fear, five slid down lines to the City of Atlanta and the others were picked up from the water by ropes or boats that were lowered for them.

Captain Garfield, of the City of Atlanta, in describing the accident, said he picked up the lights of the Cape Fear and signaled with one whistle, which was answered. He was bearing steadily to port, he said, with plenty of clearance room, when suddenly the Cape Fear swung across his bow, blowing two whistles as a signal after she had turned to cross to the other side. He ordered full speed astern, but could not avoid the collision.

The City of Atlanta struck squarely with her bow, the blow cutting a deep hole in the Cape Fear and shattering the concrete. Lines

FEDERAL RESERVE BANK SUBSTITUTES 7 PER CENT RATE

Announcement Is Made That Basic Line and Progressive Rate for Borrowing Has Been Suspended.

WILL BE OF BENEFIT TO COTTON FARMERS

Reserve Bank Officials Are of Opinion That the Change Will Be Welcomed by Member Banks.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta Friday officially announced that it has suspended its basic line and progressive rate for borrowing and has substituted therefor a flat rate of 7 per cent. The change is effective Monday.

That the revision of rates of interest charged by the local reserve bank will benefit cotton farmers of the south, through extension in farm credits, was the opinion of some bankers and financiers here who expressed their opinion regarding the matter.

The basic lines of the individual banks marked the dividing point between sums they could borrow at 6 per cent and the sums upon which progressive rates were charged. The basic lines were determined for each bank upon a basis of its average reserve balance and its investment in federal reserve stock.

Officials of the federal reserve bank were of the opinion that the removal of this basic line and the substitution of a flat 7 per cent rate would be welcomed by the member banks, notwithstanding the fact that it would raise the rate on small loans, because it would greatly loosen lines of credit and would lower the rate on heavy loans.

On 7 Per Cent Basis.

It was stated that a large majority of the reserve districts are on a 7 per cent basis, including the New York district, and that the Sixth Reserve district has been more fortunate than other districts in point of interest rates. There are 450 member banks of the Sixth district.

The revision holds good for the local reserve bank only, it was stated, and was originated and recommended by officials of the Atlanta Reserve bank and by them sent to the head bank of the reserve system in Washington and there approved.

Officials of the local reserve bank announced Friday afternoon that through circulars to be issued by them they will immediately acquaint all member banks of the change, which goes into effect November 1.

Wellborn's Announcement.

Governor M. B. Wellborn, of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank, in officially announcing the revision of rates Friday, issued the following statement:

"It is true the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta has made a change in its rates. The basic line and progressive rates have been suspended and a flat rate of 7 per cent has been substituted therefor."

In his concluding speech Mr. Barrett said:

"The Farmers' union officials are being flooded with messages from the cotton and grain belts to call for a holding movement. The unrest in this country over the price situation is deeper and more widespread than ever before. The time has now come for action. Since the government has failed us we now ask that government officials stop talking price decline and give us a chance to help ourselves. Our union officials interpret the resolutions you have just passed as endorsing a federal holding movement on wheat and cotton and possibly other products, certainly on wheat and cotton, for that only will get us anywhere. I have positive information that the world's wheat situation is such that a very slight holding movement among American farmers will lift the price of wheat. I know that the world cannot go much longer without southern cotton. The 1920 crop is not a large crop. The spindles must have our cotton in a short time. Within a few months they will be coming to us for cotton. It is now a question of when."

Popular Atlanta Girl Gets Bronze Medal for Bravery

MISS MARIANNA GOLDSMITH.

Miss Marianna T. Goldsmith, popular young Atlanta girl, has been awarded the Carnegie bronze medal for bravery, according to telegraphic announcement from Pittsburgh, where the Carnegie Hero commission held its annual fall meeting Friday. Two other Georgians were thus honored in the awards announced, a silver medal being awarded to Grover C. Hunter, of LaGrange, and a bronze medal to Miss Goldsmith, of Madison.

Miss Goldsmith, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Goldsmith, of East Lake, performed the deed commemorated in the award in July, 1916, when she was responsible for saving the lives of Miss Carrie Richards and Miss Louise Brown, who were then aged 14 and 16 years, respectively. Miss Goldsmith was only 12 years old at the time.

The three girls were bathing in the lake at East Lake Country club, when Miss Brown and Miss Richards, both of whom were only 14 years of age, became frightened, grasped each other and went under the surface. Miss Goldsmith, seeing their plight, swam immediately out to them in an effort to get them to the shore.

FARMERS URGED TO KEEP CROPS FROM MARKET

Charles S. Barrett Says Resolution Means General Holding Movement for Wheat and Cotton.

Washington, October 29.—(Special.)—Advised by Charles S. Barrett, president of the National Farmers' union, to hold cotton and wheat, the delegates to the agricultural conference left for home tonight after the adoption of resolutions which practically call for the holding of agricultural crops off the market until prices meet the cost of production. The resolutions call for orderly marketing over a period of twelve months and Mr. Barrett interpreted this as meaning holding for better prices. It would be ruinous, he said, to sell at prices now prevailing on cotton, wheat and other commodities.

The resolutions adopted by the conference refer to the present agricultural crisis as the result of a deflation policy which has borne heavily upon the farmer, and the lack of market and a governmental policy which refused additional financial assistance. It declares orderly marketing is now impossible and this has been brought to the attention of the high officials of the federal government.

Barrett to Delegates.

In his concluding speech Mr. Barrett said:

"The Farmers' union officials are being flooded with messages from the cotton and grain belts to call for a holding movement. The unrest in this country over the price situation is deeper and more widespread than ever before. The time has now come for action. Since the government has failed us we now ask that government officials stop talking price decline and give us a chance to help ourselves. Our union officials interpret the resolutions you have just passed as endorsing a federal holding movement on wheat and cotton and possibly other products, certainly on wheat and cotton, for that only will get us anywhere. I have positive information that the world's wheat situation is such that a very slight holding movement among American farmers will lift the price of wheat. I know that the world cannot go much longer without southern cotton. The 1920 crop is not a large crop. The spindles must have our cotton in a short time. Within a few months they will be coming to us for cotton. It is now a question of when."

HARDING IN BONDS TO BIG BUSINESS, ASSERTS GOV. COX

Addressing Ohio Voters, the Democratic Candidate Flays the Public Record of His Rival.

COX URGES DEFEAT OF ANTI-LEAGUE MEN

Governor Says He Would Not Only Vote Against, But Make Speeches Against, Any Democratic Candidate Who Opposes the League.

Akron, Ohio, October 29.—Senator Harding's public record was flayed here tonight by Governor Cox in an address replying in vigorous terms to the senator's speech here last night in which the republican nominee declared he was "unpledged, unowned and unbossed."

"If it were not a tragedy, this statement would be a joke," declared Governor Cox to a large audience at a factory auditorium. "Surely, Senator Harding can expect no one to take him seriously when, in face of his public record, everyone knows that throughout the years of his public life, he has been one in bondage to the big business interests and the corporate interests of the country. His entire record has been one of turning his back on every proposal for progress."

Here and in other addresses at Youngstown and Kent, Ohio, Governor Cox attacked Senator Harding as a "reactionary, evasive upon the league of nations and other issues," and the governor reiterated that he himself was the champion of progress.

Senator Harding's speech here last night was the special theme of the governor's fire tonight in probably the most bitter personal attack yet made.

Ohio Professor Fights Harding And Loses Place

Professor Chancellor, of Wooster College, Forced to Resign Because of Letters Inimical to the Senator.

Wooster, Ohio, October 29.—The resignation of Professor William Eastbrook Chancellor, as a member of the faculty of the College of Wooster, was requested by the board of trustees here tonight on account of "exigencies due to the publication of letters as to Senator Harding, attributed to Professor Chancellor."

The action of the board, in the form of a resolution, followed a hearing during which Professor Chancellor answered questions touching the authorship of the letters which were alleged to have been inimical to the senator's candidacy.

The resolution calling for Professor Chancellor's resignation, follows:

"It having come to the knowledge of the board that circular letters are being scattered broadcast throughout the country with reference to Senator Harding, republican nominee for the presidency, which letters are attributed to Professor William E. Chancellor, a part of which he admits to have been written by him; and

"Whereas, such circular letters issued on the eve of the election are calculated to prejudice, and to influence the electorate of the country, at the coming election; therefore,

"Resolved, That we, the board of trustees of the College of Wooster, repudiate and disavow such circular letters, and we hereby request Professor Chancellor to resign his position as a member of the faculty of the College of Wooster, and to refrain from making any such circular letters, and to refrain from making any such circular letters, and to refrain from making any such circular letters."

After a conference with a committee, including Dr. John Timothy Stone, president of the board, Professor Chancellor stated that while conscious of the embarrassing position in which he had placed himself in his broadcast that he had done nothing wrong or improper, and that he will continue to have the kindest feelings toward the college and the board.

NO RIGID TERMS TO BE PRESCRIBED, DECLARES COLBY

Commenting on Letter From Mexican Commissioner Pesqueira, Colby Says Mexican Question Will Soon Be Settled.

NEW MEXICO ARISES, ASSERTS PESQUEIRA

High Commissioner Refutes "Certain Slanders" That Have Angered Mexicans—Mexico Intends to Meet All Obligations—Pesqueira Letter Basis for Recognition, Says Colby.

Washington, October 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—Early recognition of the new government in Mexico was forecast today by Secretary Colby. Whether it will precede inauguration of President-elect Obregon next December was not stated.

In revealing that "discussions" have been in progress with Roberto V. Pesqueira, confidential agent of the Mexican City government, however, Mr. Colby said these gave "promise of a speedy and happy outcome."

Admission After Denial.

The announcement came as a surprise. Earlier in the day a report circulated in New York that recognition was imminent met with emphatic denial at the state department. A few hours later, however, Secretary Colby made public a letter from Mr. Pesqueira as the basis for his announcement, stating it afforded a foundation "upon which the preliminaries to recognition can confidently proceed."

"I think I am warranted in saying," Mr. Colby's formal announcement said, "that the Mexican question will soon be settled, and that the United States, in its interest, is about to be answered, not only as it concerns the United States, but, indeed, the whole world as well."

Mr. Pesqueira's letter told of his earlier informal negotiations with Under Secretary Davis at the state department and said it was "a new Mexico" which, "submitting herself to the recognized principles of international law," now sought recognition by the United States. Mr. Colby described the latter as "a very significant and a very gratifying and reassuring statement of the attitude and purposes of the new government of Mexico."

Mr. Pesqueira, formerly Mexican financial agent in New York, recently returned from a brief visit to Mexico when he was appointed confidential agent of the new government. Mr. Colby's announcement said Mr. Pesqueira "came to Washington bearing the fullest powers to speak and act on behalf of his government."

George Creel Saw Wilson.

George Creel, former chairman of the committee on public information, accompanied Mr. Pesqueira to the Mexican capital. Before his departure Mr. Creel had a personal interview with President Wilson.

JEWELS NOT STOLEN, BUT ONLY MISPLACED

That jewels belonging to a resident of 363 Peachtree street, referred to in newspapers Friday as having disappeared during Thursday, were not stolen, but were merely misplaced and later found by their owner, was the statement Friday night of Mrs. M. V. Bingham, of the above address.

"Some diamonds were lost," Mrs. Bingham stated, "but they were not stolen, and there was absolutely no irregularity about their disappearance. Detectives were called in and the jewels were found by their owner where they had been misplaced. No suspicion was attached to any person in the house, as some diamonds had been led to believe."

THE STORK BRINGS to Atlanta TWO PIGGLY WIGGLY STORES

—AT—

147 North Moreland Avenue

392 Edgewood Avenue

Piggly Wiggly came to this town to be an institution of this town.

Piggly Wiggly is your store, whoever you are. IT is YOUR OWN store if you are a man. IT is YOUR OWN store if you are a woman. IT is YOUR OWN store if you are a boy. IT is YOUR OWN store if you are a girl. IT is YOUR OWN store in every conceivable slant of the words. "Your Very Own."

YOU CAN COME to a Piggly Wiggly store and know by the very atmosphere of the store itself that it is YOUR OWN. Whatever question you want to ask, you can ask and be courteously answered. You can stay in all parts of this store or in any part of this store as long as you want to stay. You can examine every one of the more than one thousand articles of merchandise, if you care to do that. You can examine one or as many of these items as you may desire. You can select one or as many as you desire.

YOU WILL THEN pay, at the time you are ready to depart from the store, only for that which you have selected of your own free will and without coercion and without persuasion and without recommendation.

ALABAMA FACES
GENERAL STRIKE*State Labor Federation
Calls for Wholesale
Walkout—Impeachment of Governor Kilby Asked.

Birmingham, Ala., October 29.—Resolutions calling for a general strike in Alabama were introduced in the convention of the State Federation of Labor here today.
Many other resolutions were introduced, among them being one calling for the impeachment of Governor Kilby, for sending troops into the mining fields. All were referred to a committee.
Recalling the case of the United Mine Workers, who have been contending for recognition of the union, the resolution calling for a general strike, set November 5, 6 and 7 as the date upon which all members of organized labor in the state shall walk out in sympathy with the miners.

Governor Kilby Denounced.
Governor Kilby, by sending troops into the coal fields, has violated the state constitution by prohibiting free speech and free assembly, according to the resolution calling for his impeachment, which provides that all union locals shall collect funds to defray the legal expenses of the fight to oust the governor.

Other resolutions urged the railroad workers to refuse to move coal mined by non-union labor; asked the public to recognize the laboring class and extend the sympathies of the convention to Eugene Y. Debs, socialist candidate for the presidency, who is in an Atlanta penitentiary for violating the espionage laws; condemned the "capitalist press of Birmingham in particular, and of Alabama, and the whole United States in general" for "maliciously lying about, slandering and vilifying the labor movement, both here and everywhere," and urged the United Mine Workers of America for the miners and end labor trouble in mines forever.
A telegram signed by the president of the federation was sent this afternoon to President Wilson calling upon him "to put federal agencies in motion for the protection of the people against the lawless governor of Alabama."

Appeal to Wilson.
The telegram to the president follows:
"Birmingham, Ala., October 29, 1920.—Hon. Woodrow Wilson, President, White House, Washington, D. C.: The lawless governor of Alabama, under the pretense of preserving order in the mineral district during a miners' strike, but actually for the purpose of suppressing the strike, has placed the national guard in control of this district, and under his authority partial law prevails, civil rights of citizens have been suspended, freedom of speech denied, public assemblage forbidden, homes of peaceful citizens invaded and searched, arms seized and the right to pass freely over the public highway forbidden.
"Under color of his office this governor is denying due process of law as guaranteed by the fourteenth amendment; he is denying to citizens the equal protection of the laws; he is violating both federal and state constitutions and is practically peonage on the part of coal operators.

"The Alabama State Federation of Labor, in extraordinary session assembled, appeals that you put federal agencies in motion for the protection of the people and the redress of their grievances."
"W. L. HARRISON, President."
"LEWIS BOWEN, Secretary."

WRANGLING OVER
BODY OF MACSWINEY

midnight, attended the services. They planned to go to Cork by a special train leaving at 3 o'clock this afternoon.
Dublin and the whole of southern Ireland were in mourning today with the tramways and other public services suspended and the hotels not serving meals. Many of the shops had steel froths against the possibility of trouble.
As the day progressed thousands assembled in O'Connell street and attempted to form a procession. Military forces with armored cars and tanks took possession of the district for the purpose of preventing any procession.

FIERCE STRUGGLE
OVER THE COFFIN OF MACSWINEY

Holy Head, Wales, October 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—When day broke this morning over the Irish sea, the steamer Rathmore, bearing the body of the late Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, who died Monday in Brixton prison, London, was steaming southward off the Welsh headlands on its way to that city. At the same hour the relatives of MacSwiney, who refused to board the special steamer provided to take them and the lord mayor's body to Cork, were on their way to Dublin, almost directly across the narrow straight which divides Albion from Erin. The relatives left Holy Head at 2:30 o'clock, a little more than an hour after the Rathmore disappeared in the darkness which shrouded the coast.

Shipment of MacSwiney's body direct to Cork was preceded by a violent scene in which blows were struck and members of the lord mayor's family were dragged from their railway coach at the Holy Head railway station. They refused to consent to the government's plan to take the body to Cork instead of Dublin, and it was only after they had been placed under virtual temporary arrest that the body was taken from the coach and hauled to the dock, where the Rathmore was waiting.

Britains Gives Orders.
The first stop after the train left Euston station was at Crews, just outside of London, where the superintendent of the London metropolitan police in charge of three coaches filled with constables accompanying the party, was handed a letter by a messenger. It was signed by Sir Hamar Greenwood, secretary for Ireland, and was addressed to the widow of the late lord mayor. It read:

"Madam: I am advised that the landing and funeral of the lord mayor in Dublin is to be a demonstration of a political nature. I regret, therefore, the Irish government cannot allow the disembarkation of his remains at any other port in Ireland except his native city of Cork. In order to save every inconvenience the government has directed the London and North Western Railway company to provide a suitable steamer to carry the remains direct to Cork from Holy Head. This steamer MacSwiney, brother of the late lord mayor, who remarked that the lady mayors was not on board the train, and demanded the superintendent's authority to obey the Irish secretary's orders, as he was under the jurisdiction of the home office. The superintendent replied the home office had given the Irish secretary authority in this instance.

Cordon of Police.
When the train arrived here, near midnight, a cordon of police was formed around the platform entrances, keeping back a good-sized crowd of curious persons who booed and jeered. Seventy-six "black and tans" formed on the platform and stood at "present arms" as the mourners passed along it. Mr. O'Brien, London executive of the Irish Self-Determination league who represented the family on the funeral train, demanded that the station master fulfill the contract to carry the body to Cork by the way of Kingstown, a port near Dublin. A conference in the station master's office followed, and that official was arranging for the transfer of the body and mourners by way of Kingstown when an official entered and said the superintendent of police wanted to speak with him.
When the station master returned, he said: "My orders are that the body must be placed on board the Rathmore for shipment to Cork, and they will be obeyed." He intimated force would be used if necessary.
Deputy Mayor O'Callaghan, of Cork, shaking his finger in the station master's face, said: "You and your government are body snatchers. You are going to seize a dead body, and we refuse to accompany you and your nefarious expedition." The station master went to the baggage car, where the mourners were grouped around the flower-decked box containing the coffin, and ordered the box removed to the steamer. When they heard his order, Annie and Mary MacSwiney, sisters of the dead lord mayor, cried defiantly: "You have murdered our brother, and you are not going to arrest his body."

"Body snatchers!" cried women. The mourners refused to allow the porters to touch the casket and a police officer ordered the former to leave the car. They declined, and constables, who had been called, forcibly dragged some of the male mourners from the car. They struck at the police, who drew their truncheons while women in the party shrieked: "Body snatchers; shame!" They also fought the police who were electing them. During the melee, the Misses MacSwiney claimed that the police knocked them down. The mourners were then herded to one side, the box was placed on a truck, and, closely guarded by police, it was wheeled to the steamer. It was picked up by a crane and whirled against the midnight sky for a moment as it was swung over the steamer's side. It was then lowered into the hold.

Members of the funeral party waited until the Rathmore had left her dock and then went to the pier from which departs the steamer bound for Kingstown.

WILSON TO RECOGNIZE NEW REGIME IN MEXICO

Published reports that he was making the trip as the formal representative of the president brought repeated denials from the state department, where it was stated he had no official status, and that his application for a passport showed the purpose of his Mexican visit to be "business and pleasure." Friends of Mr. Creel said he had gone to get material for a magazine article.

On his arrival in Mexico City Mr. Creel had a six-hour conference with Provisional President de la Huerta and was quoted by Mexico City papers as having said he would return to the United States to work for immediate recognition, taking the matter up directly with the white house. Mr. Creel again saw President Wilson yesterday and later conferred with Mr. Colby. After Mr. Colby's announcement of impending recognition, officials refused to discuss Mr. Creel's status or activities in any way.

Prior to Secretary Colby's announcement there had been no intimation at the state department that early recognition was a possibility. Officials had repeatedly intimated that it would be necessary letter offered a basis upon which the preliminaries to recognition can confidently proceed."

The Querqueira letter said that "the informal and frank conversations," which the confidential agent had had with Undersecretary Davis had "resulted in cordial and thorough understanding." The purpose of the letter, Mr. Querqueira said, was to put "upon paper the exact position and the definite desires of my government." He declared that from border to border there was peace in Mexico; that "not a single rebel remained in arms against the government and that the whole nation thought 'in terms of law and order and reconstruction.'"

Mr. Querqueira said that the state department before he received his present appointment from his government. Publication of the fact that he had urged recognition led his predecessor, Mr. Calderon, to issue a declaration that he alone was credited in Washington to speak for the Mexican provisional government. Mr. Calderon's recall and Mr. Querqueira's appointment to succeed him followed.

Although he saw newspaper men after his announcement, Mr. Colby did not amplify the formal statement further than to lay stress on his declaration that Mr. Querqueira's

Mexico Feels Deeply Grieved.

"Mexico cannot but feel deeply grieved," said the letter, "over the charge that she intends or has ever intended to disavow her obligations. President De la Huerta as well as President-elect Obregon, have on repeated occasions publicly declared that Mexico will respect all rightful claims duly proved as such."

Mr. Querqueira said his government was prepared to establish a joint arbitration commission to adjudicate foreign claims arising out of the revolution and to make the plan to establish a national program based on "order and justice."

In answer to charges that Mexican laws were of a retroactive and confiscatory nature, Mr. Querqueira said that "not a single legitimate claim which has been addressed to me and which I am today giving out for publication, is a very significant and most gratifying statement of the attitude and purposes of the new government."

Mr. Querqueira said that the Mexican people have come, Mr. Querqueira said, to a deep and lasting appreciation of the Mexican people, who have been exhibiting in the unhappy years of the revolution as well as President-elect Obregon, have on repeated occasions publicly declared that Mexico will respect all rightful claims duly proved as such, submitting himself to the recognized principles of international law.

"The Mexican government is prepared to establish a joint arbitration commission to pass upon and adjudicate the claims presented by foreigners on account of damages occasioned during the revolution. Any claim that cannot be adjusted by means of direct negotiations between the claimant and the Mexican government will be submitted to the consideration of this commission, which will be deemed final and binding."

"Mexico has likewise held that in order to place international relations on a solid foundation, the existence of a permanent machinery of negotiation is essential for the purpose of deciding any difference. As regards the United States specifically, Mexico has already expressed her intention in Article 21 of the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, to endeavor to enlighten and strengthen this machinery."

"Our plan is to establish a national program based on order and justice. It is our firm belief that the people of North America are just as faithful to their own high ideals. Hence, nothing could better shield the dignity of both republics, as nothing could be more efficacious for the continuance of peaceful relations than the operation of a commission of this nature, organized in accordance with recognized international practices."

"This policy should be made permanent and the Mexican government desires to co-operate in so far as may be beneficial towards this end."

No Contention by Mexico.

"Another cause of deep national resentment for the Mexican government is that of a retroactive and confiscatory nature, and that our national program is based on a policy of confiscation. This is entirely groundless. Not one square yard of land has been expropriated in Mexico, not a single legitimate claim of property has been annulled. Nor do we intend to deviate from this fundamental policy. President De la Huerta and President-elect Obregon have also made public declarations to the effect that Article 27 of the constitution should be interpreted as retroactive or violative of valid property rights."

"We are a proud people and the source of our pride is as high a conception of national honor as ever erected by any nation. Therefore, when the Mexican government has solemnly pledged that it will be kept to the letter."

"Present condition in Mexico—the stability of the government, the spirit of the people—together with the plain statement of a sovereign people's purpose, all combine to seem to me, to end misunderstanding and to place the Mexican government in a position to recognize the present government of the United States as a sovereign nation in order that with a spirit of true friendship and co-operation we may look forward to the necessary rehabilitation of Mexico."

"Please permit me to thank you for your cordial and never failing understanding. In the spirit of your great president you have not lacked in the past and will not lack in the future the most sincere and most devoted support of our people. It is because of this attitude that I am able to write to you in such frankness and such sureness that you will understand the true nature of our political system, but the honest expression of an honest friend."

Respectfully,

"R. V. PESQUEIRA."

FARMERS URGED TO HOLD CROPS

tion as to whether the speculator or the farmer will carry this cotton. The farmer cannot afford to do otherwise this year. The present price is so far under the cost of production that it would bankrupt most southern farmer and merchant communities for us to sell the crop now. Those who have loaned money on cotton production can and must allow the farmer the extension. The National Farmers' union advises every cotton grower to hold back his cotton for cost of production."

Text of Resolutions.

The resolutions reported by the ways and means committee and adopted by the conference unanimously read:

"Therefore, in view of the agricultural situation as recited above, it is clear that the farmers must receive at least cost of production if they are to meet the nation's needs for food and clothing, and in order to accomplish this result the agricultural representatives, meeting in joint session in Washington, October 28-29, 1920, do hereby recommend as follows:

"That all farmers at once join the existing marketing organization, or should there be none, that they at once form such organizations as best suit the needs of their localities;

"That all farm commodities be marketed co-operatively, in an orderly manner, i. e., throughout the twelve months' period from one harvest until the next until the demand requires, known as the commodity law;

"That the government take the lead in reopening foreign markets and in developing new ones;

"That the war finance corporation, whose authority and financial resources are unimpaired, be immediately re-established;

"That a standing committee be constituted representative of and appointed by the various farm organizations for the purpose of bringing about co-ordination of effort and unity of action between the various committees now working on the question of marketing the great staple agricultural products;

"Frame Financial Policies.

"That a standing committee be similarly appointed to consider and formulate financial policies, including:

"First, recommendations to congress to give the federal reserve board power to classify loans and to give the federal farm loan board the authority to issue and sell in the open market short-term securities based on warehouse receipts issued under the federal warehouse act, and to issue short-term securities based on a proper pledge of farm inventories where it is necessary that the title remain with the producer until his marketing processes be completed, as in the case of the owner of hay, corn and cattle who must produce meat and dairy products for public use, all of these securities to qualify for federal reserve investment or discounts;

"Second, request congress to make an investigation of the subject of money and high interest rates;

"Third, consider the advisability of inaugurating a great national agricultural program, financed by co-operatives of the nation and with a directorate chosen from all the great farm organizations of the nation."

Minority Report By Marsh.

Benjamin C. Marsh, secretary of the Farmers' National Council, refused to sign the committee report, submitting a minority one requesting "the restoration of organized labor who have expressed to us at this conference their sympathy with farmers' needs to secure short-term credit so that they may secure at least costs of production, that they go to the president and lay for immediate relief and to ask this matter before the cabinet."

He also wanted the conference to go on record to work for the restoration of the railroads to government operation.

The representative of the National Grange on the committee also announced that he did not sign the majority report which was adopted with little opposition.

Resolutions asking for the enactment of laws protecting the American dairy industry from the importation of foreign dairy products also were adopted by the conference, adjourned sine die.

Eugene Meyer, Jr., of New York, former director of the war finance corporation, addressed the conference, urging rehabilitation of the finance corporation.

Before the chief had been served with a copy of the restraining order he had ordered the locks of the power company knocked from the steam connection in order that the prisoners might not suffer discomfort and the steam was to continue to flow uninterrupted Friday night.

Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Railway and Power company, stated Friday afternoon that Mayor Key does not have to resort to force to get heat for the city buildings. He declared that the company is instantly ready to furnish steam to the city on the statement from the mayor that it will be paid for by the city. The contract asked, but that the company was unwilling to have it taken away by sheer force.

Methods of Common Thief.

In smashing the pipe seals, said Mr. Arkwright, the mayor adopted the methods of a common thief. He said:

"See that Mayor Key has begun to practice what he has been preaching—that is, take other people's property."

"If Mayor Key wanted the company to furnish steam heat at the city buildings in advance of signing a contract for it, all he had to do was to ask us and we would have cheerfully complied with his request upon the understanding that he would later agree to pay for it."

This would have been a decent way to do business and would have saved the city of Atlanta from the shame of having the mayor adopt the methods of a common thief."

The heat controversy arose some weeks ago when the power company submitted to the mayor contracts for heating the city buildings during the coming winter. When Mayor Key refused to sign the contracts, he was called by a council and a special councilman committee have recommended that he sign the contracts, he has refused to do so, holding that the increase is unreasonable and that the city should not agree to pay it until it is authorized by the railroad commission.

After the mayor had set the raditors in the city buildings sizzling Friday morning he went hunting and did not get back until late in the day. Last night he said that he had not heard of the injunction of the power company when called by a Constitution reporter, and stated that he would not decide before today with what steps he will undertake to meet it.

Judge John D. Humphries, who discharged the jury. Joel Hunter was foreman of the jury and N. M. Abbott, clerk.

As the question of financing the county has made it necessary for the county commission to increase the tax rate both last year and this year, the presentment protesting the increase in salaries for municipal court judges, which was voted for recently by a majority of the commissioners, including Charles G. Turner, W. M. Poole and Paul S. Etheridge, was considered by court officials of great interest.

Protest Increases.

"We, the grand jury, wish on the part of the taxpayers and citizens of this county, to enter our protest against the action of the majority of the county commissioners in increasing the salaries of the judges of the municipal court of Atlanta by $1,200 a year in addition to their former salaries, which we believe are adequate."

"Said increases placed such salaries as follows: Chief Judge Thomas, $6,000; Judge McClelland, $5,400; Judge Ridley, $5,400; Judge Hathcock, $5,400; Judge Rosser, $5,400.

"In our opinion the financial condition of the present limits do not justify the large increase."

The increase was voted on at the last meeting of the commission, October 6, and is effective November 1. The next meeting of the commission will be held November 2. At the time that the matter was acted upon J. Oscar Mills, chairman of the commission, and Dr. W. L. Gilbert, chairman of the finance committee, voted against the increase.

The grand jury describes vice conditions in the county as having become a disgrace to the county. They state that upon a careful investigation it was found that on the highways of the county whiskey, automobiles and immoral actions are undermining the public morals. They also recommend that citizens of good standing offer their services, as citizen deputies, to assist the county police in stamping out vice on the public highways.

Vice Conditions.

The jury says in regard to vice in the county:

"We do not believe the county police are as firm as they should be with persons they arrest for offenses against the vice laws, and we do not believe the roads are patrolled often enough. We would recommend that citizens who have the honor and good repute of this county at heart offer to assist the county police, as citizen deputies, in stamping out the evil and that their names be not to be published so that people will know that they are not to be arrested by any of a large number of persons when they violate the laws regarding the public morals of this county. And we recommend the appointment of six regular plain clothes officers, who will be detailed to this work only, i. e. order that a closer watch may be kept on the traffic in our public highways."

The jury recommends that the municipal court be given jurisdiction over misdemeanor cases in order that the present congested condition at the jail may be relieved by the quicker clearing of the docket of cases of that character and in civil cases involving amounts to $1,000 instead of $5,000 as it is at present.

The jury reports that car stealing violation of traffic laws and pistol "toting" are on the increase. They also report that bonds in cases of violation of the prohibition law are "frequently set at an excessively low figure, and in such cases they urge heavier bonds and more stringent dealing before they come to trial."

This jury makes the same recommendation with reference to the consolidation of the county and city governments that the spring term grand jury made, that the county and municipal governments be consolidated, "thus doing away with unnecessary duplication of work and officers."

Income Recommendations.

The jury recommends an increase in pay to the court reporters "sufficient to enable them to employ assistants and to confine their own work to the courts, and not have to take on outside work to increase their incomes."

Roads and public institutions and the offices of county officials were reported in good condition. Salaries and no fees were advocated by

SOSEBEE RUN OVER AND BADLY HURT BY JESSUP TRUCK

While attempting to cross Peachtree road Friday morning in front of the Station residence near Buckhead, H. N. Sosebee, of Cumming, Ga., was knocked down and run over by an army truck driven by John O. Spehvin, a Camp Jessup soldier.

George Mathieson, chief of the county police, was passing when the accident occurred. LIPSCHITZ CONVICTED Given Twelve Months and Fine of $1,000.

Charles Lipschitz, a former New York clothing salesman, was convicted for the second time in the Fulton superior court Friday afternoon of a charge of larceny and was given a sentence of twelve months on the chain gang and a fine of $1,000 by Judge John D. Humphries, who presided in the case.

Lipschitz was charged with having changed the big metal trunk containing clothing, owned by his employers, and a trunk containing $400 in cash, valued at $400, the property of a New York concern, which was in charge of another Savannah, Ga. merchant.

The diamond trunk is said to have been sent to Lipschitz in Atlanta, and was taken to a local hotel where the jewelry was removed. Lipschitz was later arrested in Portland, Ore.

He was brought back to Atlanta, tried and convicted a year ago and was sentenced to serve six months in jail, twelve months on the chain gang and pay a fine of $1,000.

Judge J. Rendell Terrell, who presided at the first trial, granted him a new trial on an appeal.

Sports Tech and Centre Clash on Gridiron Today

THE "PRAYIN' COLONELS" ARRIVE IN TOWN

The Constitution's staff photographer was among the thousands of Atlantans who saw the "Prayin' Colonels" of Centre college pull into the big town yesterday, and we are showing above some of the glimpses the photog's camera made of the Kentuckians. On the extreme left, the freckle-faced gentleman with his hat off is "Bo" McMillin, described by Captain Horween of the Harvard team as the "greatest backfield player that ever lived." "Bo" seemed a bit glad to get the long train trip off his mind yesterday, but he took his session with the photographer in rather good humor. The big picture in the middle is that of the whole Centre squad, with just a few spectators who stepped on each other's toes in an effort to feast their eyes on McMillin, Moran and the rest of the crew. The team is "traveling light," but its football togs are there, so readers needn't worry. On the right is Colonel Charlie Moran, national league umpire, and chief mentor of the Kentuckians. Coach Moran says his team will do its best, and that ought to be a whole lot. Shortly after this picture was taken, the gridriders were escorted to the Kimball house, later going through a light signal workout at Piedmont park.

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.
The white and gold of Georgia Tech, and the gold and white of Centre college will emerge victorious this afternoon in the greatest football classic of the ages in the south, and from present indications, it is probable that the struggle between these valiant gridiron heroes of Dixie will be a hard one.

Centre is here, and we might add, with considerable "bells on." There was a mammoth gathering of rabid, red-eyed devotees at the terminal station yesterday afternoon to see the "Prayin' Colonels" step off the cars, and it took Atlanta fans just two seconds to complete a circle around the gridriders that couldn't have been moved by machine gun battery had it showered bullets broadcast for an hour.

Centre looks good, despite the fact that one of two of them seemed to have been a bit roughly used in the Harvard game, where the Colonel looked the football prowess of Dixie up a peg or two for the benefit of eastern disbelievers. We won't attempt to assert that Charlie Moran's team has been hurt to such a degree, and it is our opinion that the Colonels will enter the game this afternoon with practically normal strength, which ought to be enough to satisfy the beauty and brawn of the local julep ration.

Roberts is Cripple.
"Red" Roberts, that smashing piece of football plunder, and who was reported to have been hurt by a blow from death Friday night, is standing with one foot in the grave and the other on a banana peel just outside the outside of the practice field. He is not expected to play, and it is our opinion that the Colonels will enter the game this afternoon with practically normal strength, which ought to be enough to satisfy the beauty and brawn of the local julep ration.

Calvin is "Circles."
Another injury on the list is Calvin, the youth who has been looking after one of the flanks for Colonel Moran. Calvin was out in civilian attire yesterday, and seemed not a bit interested in what was going on. He was taken to the hospital, so we take it for granted that there's nothing wrong with him from the blows up. It was hinted at the Kimball last night that none of the trio of wounded heroes was at the point of death, and Atlanta fans might still have the opportunity to see them sprint in action.

The rest of the Centre line-up will remain as it is at the top of the page. We learned last night that the three cripplies in the Colo-

VERDICT DEPENDS ON FATE

BY HOMER G. GEORGE.

It may be another story today. Centre is here, but Centre is minus a great portion of the sting she carries. Two All-American players of her eleven will not be in the line-up. I am informed, while a third man, a regular and a machine man in a game that promises, from weather conditions, crowds and fighting spirit to measure up to traditions of what a football classic should be, there will be three missing, but it is such a slight advantage that the breaks of the game may easily overbalance it. Weaver, who is out of the game, is a regular and a machine man in a game that promises, from weather conditions, crowds and fighting spirit to measure up to traditions of what a football classic should be, there will be three missing, but it is such a slight advantage that the breaks of the game may easily overbalance it.

Red Roberts, the plunging full-back, is a cripple. He was not even in uniform yesterday and had to hobble considerably every step he made. Weaver, the All-American center, is also a cripple, and will not be in the line-up.

The Real Cyclone.
Having dwelt on the Centre outfit, we turn the lamp to our own warriors who will carry the cause of Georgia through the events of this afternoon. One little glance, and we are completely satisfied. Tech is ready, and when she is in that frame of mind, nothing but the grace of the gods and the sweet smiles of fortune can direct the victory barge down other streams.

Best Grid Games of 1920 Season Are Slated for This Afternoon

Ten of the big southern football teams which have not been defeated on a southern gridiron this season meet today in a football program that is topped off with the mighty struggle promised between Centre college and Georgia Tech.

All eyes are turned toward Grant field here, where preparations have been made to seat 15,000 spectators and where several thousand more are expected to find standing room around the sidelines to watch Kentucky's "whirlwind" eleven match skill and endurance with Georgia Tech's "Golden Tornado." While these two finished football machines meet in a game that promises, from weather conditions, crowds and fighting spirit to measure up to traditions of what a football classic should be, there will be three missing, but it is such a slight advantage that the breaks of the game may easily overbalance it. "Red" Roberts, that smashing piece of football plunder, and who was reported to have been hurt by a blow from death Friday night, is standing with one foot in the grave and the other on a banana peel just outside the outside of the practice field. He is not expected to play, and it is our opinion that the Colonels will enter the game this afternoon with practically normal strength, which ought to be enough to satisfy the beauty and brawn of the local julep ration.

Calvin is "Circles."
Another injury on the list is Calvin, the youth who has been looking after one of the flanks for Colonel Moran. Calvin was out in civilian attire yesterday, and seemed not a bit interested in what was going on. He was taken to the hospital, so we take it for granted that there's nothing wrong with him from the blows up. It was hinted at the Kimball last night that none of the trio of wounded heroes was at the point of death, and Atlanta fans might still have the opportunity to see them sprint in action.

BOYS' HI TEAM GORDON TEAM IS DEFEATED BEATS LOCAL BY RICHMOND HIGH SCHOOL

By J. LAUREN CLARK.

Boys' High dropped another game by a 6-0 count yesterday. This time it was the Richmond academy eleven that did the dirty work. The game was rather slow, and only one time did things resemble a football game. Boys' High had several chances to push across a counter, but the much-needed punch was absent. Richmond did little better, also having several chances for a touchdown. The visiting team's only touchdown came when Lyman broke loose for a pretty 40-yard run, which carried the ball across. Philpot missed goal.

Roberts is Cripple.
Red Roberts, the plunging full-back, is a cripple. He was not even in uniform yesterday and had to hobble considerably every step he made. Weaver, the All-American center, is also a cripple, and will not be in the line-up.

The Real Cyclone.
Having dwelt on the Centre outfit, we turn the lamp to our own warriors who will carry the cause of Georgia through the events of this afternoon. One little glance, and we are completely satisfied. Tech is ready, and when she is in that frame of mind, nothing but the grace of the gods and the sweet smiles of fortune can direct the victory barge down other streams.

Centre is Here.
Centre is here, and we might add, with considerable "bells on." There was a mammoth gathering of rabid, red-eyed devotees at the terminal station yesterday afternoon to see the "Prayin' Colonels" step off the cars, and it took Atlanta fans just two seconds to complete a circle around the gridriders that couldn't have been moved by machine gun battery had it showered bullets broadcast for an hour.

PETRELS WIN OVER WOFFORD

By WALLACE GEORGE.

In a slow game, with a cold, bitter wind sweeping across the field, the Oglethorpe Petrels downed the eleven from Wofford at Ponce de Leon park Friday afternoon by a score of 14 to 0. Johnny Knox, the brilliant halfback and captain of the Oglethorpe team, led the charge and his work was the decided feature of the game. He scored both touchdowns and gained as much ground as the other seven backfield men in the game put together. It was a closely fought game all the way, but both teams, with the lone exception of Knox's gains, were woefully weak on the offensive. Especially was this true of the visiting crowd who registered but two first downs all afternoon, both of which were donated to them by the offside penalties inflicted on the Petrels. Oglethorpe made little headway in the latter part of the game, and the fourth period was scarcely more than an exchange of punts with a few futile attempts to gain by the aerial route.

Petrels Win Toss. The game started off with Oglethorpe winning the toss and electing to defend the east goal. Brice, the big fullback of the Carolinians, kicked off 45 yards to Knox, who returned 29 yards. After two downs the ball went over on a fumble. Berry recovering on the 15-yard line, Wofford lost the ball on downs and Oglethorpe started on a drive toward the opponents' goal line. Their drive fell short and they were forced to punt. The quarter ended with the ball in the possession of the Petrels on the visitors' 45-yard line.

Almost single-handedly in the next frame Knox drove a touchdown over the goal line. He had just attempted a drop kick that failed, and Wofford was given the ball on the 25-yard line of Oglethorpe. They couldn't gain, and Brice was forced to punt. His kick was high and wild, Varnadoe receiving it on the 25-yard line and carrying it to Wofford's 25-yard line.

It was at this point that Knox came into prominence. Ivey tried to go over tackle, with no gain. Knox was then called for a left-end run and responded with a dashing gain of 13 yards. On the very next play he was called again, and this time by a clever bit of running eluded the Wofford forwards and circled their right end for the first touchdown of the game. Varnadoe added another point, the ball ending with the score 7 to 0 in favor of Oglethorpe.

Carolians Come Back. Wofford came back with a rush in the third period that looked like they were about to score. It lasted only a short while, however, and after a few plays, their drive had shot its bolt. Oglethorpe, too, was held for downs a bit later and Knox was forced to punt from mid-field. He got off a beautiful spiral that rolled out of bounds one foot from the goal, giving the visitors the ball at this point. Brice punted out from behind the goal to the 35-yard line. Knox grabbed the oval as it came back to earth and like a flash was off around the left side of the field. He picked his holes neatly, wormed his way through the crowded places, and was never headed until he had crossed the goal for the second and last touchdown of the day. Varnadoe added another point, and, as far as the scoring went, the game ended here with an Oglethorpe victory of 14 to 0.

Brice, at full, and Rhame, at left half, did the better part of the work for the losers. Gleaton, at center, played a cool, heady game all the way, too. Knox stood out distinctly as the star of the game, and along with his work should go a good word for the excellent work of the Oglethorpe tackles, Bob Nichols and Simpson. Bob was everywhere and in everything at once, breaking up half a dozen plays by himself. The summary follows:

FRESHMEN OF TECH BEATEN BY ERSKINE

Anderson, S. C., October 29.—(Special.)—The Erskine seeders had little difficulty in wrestling a 20-to-0 victory from the Georgia Tech freshmen here this afternoon. Phillips as usual started for Erskine, making steady gains and running through the Tech field time after time for splendid gains. In his game today against Tech, Phillips demonstrated to the best advantage his ability as a driver of great strength and his wonderful ability as a broken field runner and a "stiff-arm" artist. Tech threatened Erskine's goal but once during the play, but the ball went over and Erskine gained back into safe territory quickly. The game was interesting from start to finish. By straight football Erskine ran down the first touchdown and Phillips went over the goal. He kicked the goal. The second touchdown came when Phillips got loose on the 25-yard line and went around end for a touchdown. The last was the result of Phillips intercepting a forward pass, and going half the length of the field for a touchdown. He missed his second goal.

PERRIN AND SHARP WIN AT GUN CLUB

On account of the Tech-Centre football game which will be held here this afternoon, the members of the Atlanta Gun club held their regular weekly shoot Thursday afternoon. More than twenty shooters faced the traps yesterday afternoon and one of the most thrilling and most interesting shoots of the year was held. W. H. Perrin and L. E. Sharp carried off the honors of the day by breaking 49 of the 50 birds, while second honors went to J. M. Norman, who connected with 44. Third place was won by J. Q. Brantley and R. Patillo, each breaking 43. Here is the score at the fifty clay targets:

W. H. Sharp 49, W. H. Perrin 49, J. M. Norman 44, J. R. Patillo 43, J. Q. Brantley 43, R. E. Cullinan 42, H. T. Kilpatrick 42, R. E. Barnwell 40, U. S. Halsten 39, J. A. Hynde 37, E. J. Christman 37, Ed Taylor 36, W. B. Disbrow 33, W. B. Disbrow, Jr. 30, J. F. Ryan 28, J. K. O'Leary 25, N. Sage 18, H. S. Roberts 24.

Here's Some Dope On Georgia-Tiger Games of Past

BY CHAS. E. MARTIN.
Boy, page George Creel or that man Babson, statisticians, and let's see if there's not a mistake somewhere in these figures.
Of the total 25 football games played since 1892 between the University of Georgia "Bulldogs" and the Auburn "Tigers," the latter have won 12 while the Red and Black have gained 8 victories and 5 ties.
Uncovering a pile of dusty newspaper files these figures are found to be the record from that memorable game back in 1892 when Georgia and Auburn introduced football to the neck of the woods included in Cracker and Yellowhammer states.
Not since that famous game of 1912, when the two teams battled in the snow on Thanksgiving on Sanford field, has Georgia been able to turn the Auburn tide back and bring a victory into Athens.
For eight years now the double-barreled canon in front of the city time has been silent on Georgia-Auburn day. Even the chapel bell is rusty from misuse, while freshmen nightbirds have been handed down by seven classes and are yet unused in celebration of a victory over these ancient rivals. Fair Lucy Cobb has all but lost faith in "their Georgia Team" and just think of it, not a co-ed at Georgia has enjoyed that sweet music, "Georgia Beat Auburn."
The Big Question.
And now the big question is, "What about 1920?" Down in Alumni hall there is nailed up on the wall a big poster showing the Georgia-Auburn scores of the past three years with nothing but zeroes opposite Georgia and then there's a line added. I won't quote this line, but just take it from me

COLLEGE PARK SQUAD SHOWS UP IN GOOD SHAPE

G. M. A. came through the battle with the University school for boys in nice shape and not a cripple is decorating the side lines, except the squad that were hurt at the beginning of the season, and seem to be permanently on the hospital list. This speaks well for the condition of the outfit, as G. M. A. has played five stiff games in four weeks, an ambitious schedule for any team. G. M. A. has run up 136 points upon Powder Springs, Locust Grove, Winder, Bailey Military Institute, and University School for Boys. Seven points have been scored against G. M. A. being the touchdown scored by U. S. for boys in the first minute of play as a result of the timekeeper blocking a G. M. A. lateral pass.

NEWBERRY GRIDISTS EASY FOR FURMAN

Newberry, S. C., October 29.—(Special.)—The Newberry team, badly crippled by absence of its backfield men, was defeated here yesterday afternoon by Furman, 42 to 0. Spear, the Furman halfback, played his usual brilliant game.

The words written there certainly are not writ to make those men who go against Auburn Saturday forget they are fighting for Georgia, fighting for a victory that will be sweet revenge for the stinging defeat of five successive games and those who know this 1920 Red and Black outfit are conceding nothing in the way of victory to the Plainsmen. They believe the worm is due to turn and that Captain Day's crew will show Auburn the turning.

Anyway, with that forty-piece Georgia band on hand to lead the 500 rooters who will invade the Chattanooga city today, there are going to be some big doings in Columbus and football game worth going many, many miles to see.

And what about the score, someone has asked. Someone, did I say? Well, write the thousands! plural of that "someone" then. There shouldn't be over one touchdown difference and it will be that old chapel bell ever begins ringing Saturday afternoon about 6 o'clock if they are fighting for Georgia. If it will be a morning, the Furman halfback, Spear, went home until about Sunday morning.

H. JENNINGS IS SIGNED BY THE GIANTS

New York, October 29.—Hugh Jennings, who for many years was manager of the Detroit American league team, signed a contract here today as assistant manager of the New York National league baseball club. This was announced officially tonight by Vice President and Manager John J. McGraw. No details as to the terms of the contract were given out.

Jennings was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1870 and first played professional baseball with the Leighton, Pa., club in 1890. The following year he signed with the Louisville American association club as first baseman and shortstop. In 1894 he was traded to the Baltimore Nationals and four years later shifted to the Brooklyn Nationals, on which team he played first base. An injury to his arm, which he received in diving into a swimming pool at Cornell university, prevented him from returning to his regular position at shortstop.

In 1901 he became manager and captain of the Philadelphia Nationals and two years later he returned to the Baltimore Eastern league club, playing second base and shortstop until 1907, when he was drafted by the Detroit Americans. Since that time Jennings has acted as manager of the Detroit team until the close of the present season, when he resigned.

CHANGES IN RULES MADE BY WESTERN FLORIDIANS CRUSH MEN OF MERCER

Chicago, October 28.—Directors of the Western Golf association have adopted general rules on the cleaning of golf balls on putting greens, the playing of a ball from an extraneous green, and for the lifting of a ball embedded in mud. It was announced today by Assistant Secretary C. W. Higgins. The directors also retained the Western association's stymie rule, but voted to adopt the new rules of the United States Golf association regarding a lost ball, a ball of bounds and an unplayable lie.

The new Western association rules, which have been common as local rules on many courses, and frequently used in western tournaments are:

"When a ball is at rest on the putting green, if there is mud or other substance adhering to the ball, it may be lifted, cleaned and then replaced without penalty, provided such act be done before the knowledge of an opponent or another competitor."
"A ball embedded in soft mud, except in a recognized water hazard, shall be deemed to be in casual water. In such a case it may be lifted without penalty and dropped, not nearer the hole."
"If the ball be maver, onto a

INDICTMENTS RETURNED BY GRAND JURY

Chicago, October 29.—Two indictments charging thirteen persons with operating a confidence game and conspiracy were returned today by the grand jury investigating the baseball scandal.

Seven members of the Chicago White Sox, three former baseball players, a boxer and two gamblers are named. The charges grew out of the alleged "fixing" of last year's world series between the White Sox and Cincinnati.

Those indicted are Eddie Cicotte, Joe Jackson, Claude Williams, Fred McMullin, George Weaver, Oscar Felsch and Charles Risher. White Sox players. Arnold (Chick) Gandil, former White Sox player; Hal Chase, former New York Giant; Abe Attell, former boxer; Joseph "Sport" Sullivan, of Boston; and Rachael Brown of New York.

The conspiracy indictment contains five counts, including charges of conspiracy to obtain money unlawfully, conspiracy to defraud, conspiracy to obstruct justice, conspiracy to tamper with witnesses, and conspiracy to obstruct justice.

Valdosta, Ga., October 29.—(Special.)—Approximately 4,000 people saw Mercer defeated by the University of Florida today by a score of 30 to 0.

Putting green other than that of the hole being played, the ball shall be lifted and placed off such green as near as possible to the place where the ball lay, but not nearer the hole, without penalty.

The stymie rule of the Western association, which differs from the United States Golf association rule, which does not abolish stymies when laid by one's self, follows: "Where both balls are on the putting green, if the player of the ball farthest from the hole claims that the nearer ball interferes with his putt, the nearer ball, upon request, shall be lifted or played at the option of the owner."
This rule has been in effect for three years, while the United States Golf association rule was made effective on September 1, this year.

WILDCATS AND TIGERS TO SETTLE OLD DEBTS

New Orleans Mardi Gras, on a much reduced scale, of course. The shops will be closed for half a day and everybody who is up and getting about will be at the game "with bells on," literally.

Fickle Dope.

That fickle and unmerciful forerunner of football games—"dope"—seems to lead Auburnward. In other words, Once Auburn licked Vanderbilt by the greatest score made against the Commodores in several years, while Georgia was held to a close score by a green team—the Oglethorpe Petrels, the Plainsmen should win by two or more touchdowns.

In the many years that Auburn and Georgia have faced each other, the latter outfit has never yet run true to dope. That is to say, no matter what the former performance of the Georgia team have been they played great game against Auburn. Last year, Auburn, according to the afore-said "dope," should have won handsily. As it turned out, Georgia put up one of the most wonderful exhibitions of defensive football seen in the south for some years, and Auburn won by one touchdown.

Therefore, it's pretty safe to say that the score will be close, and Auburn will win the victory should be of the one-touchdown variety.

Won't Try Line. From the way the situation appears just now, it seems hardly possible the Georgians will do any great amount of damage through the Auburn line. Bucking up against great, slow-moving mountains of flesh is one thing, but bucking up against these same mountains of flesh which have proven their ability to move around with startling agility is quite another, and that's the obstacle Georgia must surmount. Auburn has been noted for great defense against the forward pass and it is this style of play which should be crowned with greatest success today.

A Great Backfield. Coupled with their almost impregnable defense, Auburn has a well-footed, hard-running backfield, with one newly-discovered star. This latter is Ed Shirling, a fullback who hits the line with all the drive and power that 200 pounds of brawn and strength can impart. His work against Vandy was remarkable, and the records show that he was run very nearly every other time, carrying the ball over four times, and making possible the other three touchdowns scored by the Plainsmen. He is very ably assisted in the backfield by Stubbs, at quarter, and Howard and Scott at halves. Howard would be a bright star if he kept in really good condition while Scott has been handicapped by injuries ever since he first appeared on the team.

As to the comparative weight of the two teams, Auburn will have it on the Wildcats by twenty or thirty pounds on the line, while the backfields present about an equal amount of avoirdupois. The Tiger average about 215 from tackle to tackle, which, you will admit, is quite a bit of heft. No one can foretell the victor of the game, but it can be said that the winner will not be begrudged his hard-won laurels.

SUBSTITUTE FOR LASKER PLAN MADE

Chicago, October 29.—A counterproposal to the "Lasker Plan" for the reorganization of baseball was made today by the board of directors of the American league, in executive session here. The board's proposal was in answer to the ultimatum of the National league members and the three American league club members—Chicago, New York and Boston—who declared they would organize a twelve-club league if the five American league clubs which are loyal to President Johnson did not join in the plan before November 1.

The board's answer suggests that a committee of nine members—three each from the National league, the American league and the National association of Professional Baseball league (minor leagues)—work out a plan of reorganization. This committee, it was pointed out, will give due consideration not only to the major leagues, but to the minor leagues as well.

"We are confident," the statement says, "that in this manner a reorganization may be worked out along sane and practical lines, which will be satisfactory, not only to so-called organized baseball, but to the public as well."

"We recognize that there is a strong feeling prevalent among the public in favor of some reorganization, and the American league will be glad to co-operate in a feasible and practical way to that end."

The board of directors are of the unanimous opinion that the so-called Lasker plan will prove wholly ineffectual to accomplish the results which its sponsors seek to accomplish, and that the American league cannot subscribe to that plan," the statement continues.

The meeting today was attended by B. E. Johnson, president of the American league, and all members of the board of directors—P. D. C. Ball, St. Louis; Frank J. Marvin, Detroit; Clark C. Griffith, Washington; Thomas S. Shibe, Philadelphia; and all of whom signed the statement.

MACON MAKES BID FOR GEORGIA-TECH GAME NEXT YEAR
Macon, Ga., October 29.—(Special.)—At separate meetings of the alumni associations of the University of Georgia and Georgia Tech, held here today, recommendations were adopted by both organizations that athletic relations between the two institutions be resumed. It was further recommended that the annual football contest between the two colleges be played in Macon. The recommendations will be sent to the heads of the athletic departments of both Georgia and Tech at the meeting of the Georgia Alumni association. A committee composed of General Walter A. Earles, Charles Block and Augustus Sparks was named to handle the matter. The Tech Alumni association named John Porter, Leonard Solomon and Jack Witman as their committee.

THE SCHOOL AMENDMENT.

Every public-spirited citizen who is qualified to participate in the general election next Tuesday should go to the polls and, regardless of his preference as between candidates or political issues, cast a ballot for "Constitutional Amendment Number Six," which, as it will appear on the ticket, is "For ratification of Amendment to Paragraph 1, Section 4, Article 7, Providing for Local School Tax."

Briefly stated, this proposed amendment, which has been submitted to the voters by the general assembly, provides that each county shall be required to levy from one to five mills—the amount being optional with the voters of the respective counties—each year to provide additional revenues for public school purposes, just as sixty-nine Georgia counties, all of our cities and towns and many of the school districts in other counties already are doing of their own volition.

More than that, this amendment would also empower any city, town or district in any county to levy additional tax if deemed advisable and desirable, provided the people of the town or district vote for such tax increase.

State Superintendent of Schools M. L. Brittain, rated as one of the most competent and progressive public school executives in the whole country, and who has for several years been urging the enactment and ratification of this amendment, has issued a public statement in which he says of it:

"It is the most important educational law that has been passed by the people of this state since the constitution convention in 1877. It provides the only business method of maintaining schools. Without such a law, unless means are provided by the payment of expensive tuition fees, proper school facilities would be impossible to maintain."

There is nothing Georgia needs worse than it needs improvements and expansion in its rural public school system.

Those improvements cannot be attained without more money for school purposes—revenue in addition to and with which to supplement that derived from the state treasury each year—and this amendment provides the solution of the question of how to get it.

It should, by all means, be ratified by an overwhelming majority at the ballot-box next Tuesday.

Vote for it! And in voting for it you will be voting to broaden the opportunities of the rural boys and girls of Georgia.

OUR WOUNDED CHIEF.

Probably there was never written a more tragically pathetic and tenderly inspiring description of a character or of an episode in American history than Secretary Tumulty's word portrayal of the scene recently presented when the president seated in his wheel chair on the east terrace of the white house.

"Presently in the procession," runs his description, "there appeared an ambulance laden with wounded soldiers—the maimed and the halt and the blind. As they pass, they salute slowly. Presently, the president's right hand goes up in answering salute. There were tears in his eyes. The wounded is greeting the wounded; those in the ambulance, he in the chair, are alike, casualties of the great war."

Our president, broken in health, physically wasted away as a consequence of his service to his country in a crisis, is as much a casualty of the war as though his breast had been pierced by a Hun bayonet on the field of battle.

And what a saddening reflection it is to visualize, that while the wounded president was exchanging tender greetings with wounded men in uniform, others throughout the country were going about on political stump to stump decrying, berating, abusing and verbally crucifying him before his fellow Americans whose love he craves—all simply because the president, in his overzeal, may have done some things of which they did not approve, and which they resented so bitterly that they are willing to crucify him to "get even."

Suppose President Wilson did err in failing to appoint a senator to sit at the peace table—Suppose he did err in failing to confer with some of the men who are today among his most bitter critics—Suppose that in his work for human welfare his attitude might have been assumed to be unduly autocratic—Suppose somebody else in his place might have been more diplomatic—admitting all of this for the sake of argument—the fact remains that no public man in the history of this country has ever been subjected to a more cruel, a more unrelenting, or a more unwarranted, crucifixion!

WATCH SUNDAY'S "ADS."

If anybody doubts that the cost of living has taken a tremendous slump lately all he has to do to be convinced is to keep up with the retail advertisements in The Constitution. Just take a look, for instance, at the announcements in tomorrow's (Sunday's) Constitution, which has always been the great Sunday advertising mart of Atlanta.

It will be worth anybody's while to look over this issue for details as to the substantial reductions that have been made in the prices of all articles entering into men's and women's wearing apparel and into household items and furnishings in general.

Only a few months ago shoes, for example, were selling at from $18 to $25 a pair; felt hats at from $10 to $15. This proportion in prices obtained all down the line.

Today the same shoes can be bought at the special "unloading" sales for a half or a third of what was formerly asked for them; the same is true of hats and other articles. All such items have not been reduced—but watch for the amazing offers of the "bargain counters."

It is simply a question of locating them, exercising vigilance, and finding out the real extent of these reductions, and where they are to be obtained.

This spread is to be found in Sunday's Constitution, and it will be well worth anybody's while to go on a hunt for the inducement offered. It will pay.

Retail Merchants

Thank Constitution For "Dispelling Gloom"

October 27, 1920.
Editor Constitution: The board of directors of this association at a meeting yesterday instructed me to write to you expressing their appreciation and thanks for the campaign you are conducting for the purpose of dispelling the feeling of pessimism regarding business conditions which was seriously hampering the retail business in this city.

W. B. FITZGERALD,
Secretary Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association.

The last issue of The Columbia Sentinel contained an editorial written by Senatorial Nominee Thomas E. Watson, in which he criticized the Constitution for having taken the editorial position that Mr. Hardwick, having won the gubernatorial nomination, was entitled to the united support of the party without having taken the same position toward Mr. Watson's nomination for the senate. He called the attention of his friends to what he called this "discrimination."

In the same editorial Mr. Watson stated that he had heard that Mr. Howell was instrumental in urging the candidacy of Harry S. Edwards for the senate against him.

The Constitution is in receipt of the attached voluntary telegram sent by Mr. Watson, in which he makes complete retraction of the injustice done The Constitution in his editorial.

It is true that immediately after Mr. Watson's nomination for the senate in the first senatorial primary, The Constitution, the day following the primary, acquiesced in the result, expressing the hope that Mr. Watson would direct his eminent ability to leadership in such measures as would bring about the betterment of state and country as might obtain the support of all.

On September 15, a few days after the primary, The Constitution, calling attention to the movement for independent opposition to Mr. Watson, declared emphatically that Mr. Watson had run the race fairly and squarely, and that he was entitled to the support of every man who went into the primary. It stated that there was no room for independent opposition to the regular nominee, and urged an end to the movement to bring out such opposition.

Rainbow-Bubble Dance.

An interesting event of Monday evening, November 1, will be the rainbow-bubble dance at Segard's given by a group of Atlanta club girls, the proceeds of which will go toward a Christmas fund for the Home of Convalescent Children. Miss Pauline Bicknell, who is in charge of the affair, is receiving the sincere co-operation of the officers of the representative dance clubs and fraternities, and cards have been mailed to the members of these clubs and their friends. The club is to be decorated with the colors of the rainbow and "bubble" bunnies will hang from the ceiling. There will be a "bubble dance" as the special feature of the evening.

Halloween Party At Base Hospital 48.

On the evening of October 28 a Halloween party was given to the patients at the N. S. P. H. hospital at Peachtree road. One ward in the hospital was opened for the entertainment which was given by the Red Cross. Music was furnished by Mrs. W. C. C. C. circle. Miss Harwell, one of the teachers in the public schools, had her children make appropriate favors. The patients themselves assisted in making favors and in the decorating of the ward. Real Halloween costumes were worn by many present. Mrs. E. K. Croft, dressed as a witch, told fortunes, and also conducted a guessing contest. The Virginia reel and square dance, singing and much genuine fun was on the program. Refreshments were served in the form of home-made ginger cakes, apple pies, apples, candy and cider.

To Misses Rambo.

Two pretty visitors, Miss Mary Rambo and Miss Jane Rambo, of Knoxville, who are the guests of Miss Hattie Poole, were the honor guests in Miss Margaret Yeager's party yesterday when she gave a bridge-luncheon at the home of her sister, Mrs. Carroll McCauley. Yellow and white chrysanthemums were the centerpiece of a handsome table. The table was decorated with yellow and white, with Halloween pictures for place cards. Miss Yeager wore a becoming crown of brown taffeta.

Artistic Recital By Talented Musicians.

Before a representative audience which filled the hall at Washington seminary yesterday afternoon, Miss Mary Adele Hayas, assisted by Mrs. C. W. Bingham, violinist; Mrs. Charles E. Downman, pianist; and Miss Kathleen Morris, pianist and accompanist, gave one of the most delightful recitals for Atlanta chapter, D. A. R., ever given here. Miss Hayas possesses a voice of rare coloratura quality, with an unusual mellowness in the medium register. She showed versatility in her selections, which ranged from operatic arias to the simple "Old Folks at Home." The songs, "I Nieve," "The Icicle and the Mad Scene from 'Lucia di Lammermoor'" were excellently rendered. W. B. Bingham, who heads the violin department of the Brenau school of music, delighted the audience with her artistic rendition of "Canzonetta" and "The Menuet in A" by Beethoven. Miss Kathleen Morris, finished pianist, accompanied the artists with unusual feeling and interpretation.

Dinner-Dance Inaugurates Winter Social Season

A brilliant inauguration of the social season was the dinner-dance last night at the Capital City club, when a company of several hundred was in attendance.

The entertainment was one of elaborate plan and the spirit of the occasion was festive and distinguished. The dinner-dance was held in the ballroom, and there were as many parties in the saloon adjoining and the smaller dining rooms. Everywhere there was handsome decoration in palms and smilax with chrysanthemums in their deep golden and red tints. The table centerpieces were of these effective blooms, and favors were witches and owls, jack-o'-lanterns and noise-makers, with hats for the ladies in the gay colors of Halloween tradition.

Chase's orchestra provided appropriately bright music during dinner, and there was a special feature in the songs by Miss Ruby Hollingsworth, soprano. Afterward the newest dance music from the dance hits in New York gave extra inspiration for the dancing.

There were a number of visiting belles present, and the debutantes made their first formal bow in a large party.

WOMEN NEED NOT STAND IT

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Surely Relieves Suffering and Pain. Here is Proof.

St. Paul, Neb.—"I suffered with periodical pain for about four years so that I was unable to do my work at times. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it. It soon stopped all my suffering so that I am now feeling fine in every way. I recommend your medicine to my friends who have similar troubles. You may publish this letter for the benefit of other women."—Mrs. WILL THOMAS, St. Paul, Neb.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

For forty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who now are free from suffering by its use.

13 Eggs A Day From 17 Young Pullets

Mrs. Niles Starts 6-months Old Pullets-Laying. Tells How.

"Early in November, I bought a package of Don Sung and started giving it to my 17 young pullets. In 30 days they laid 138 lovely eggs. All through December I got 12 to 13 eggs a day. Mrs. Niles, R. F. D. 2, Lucerne, Ill.

Mrs. Niles found how to start young pullets laying and keep them laying all winter. The same method helps hens through the moult, and starts them laying. You can test this at our risk. Get your hens Don Sung and watch results for one month. If you don't find that it pays for itself and pays you a good profit besides, simply return your money will be cheerfully refunded.

Don Sung (Chinese for egg-laying) is a scientific tonic and conditioner. It is easily given in the feed, improves the hen's health and makes her stronger and more active. It tones up the egg-laying organs, and gets the eggs, no matter how cold or wet the weather.

You can obtain Don Sung from your druggist or poultry remedy dealer, or send $1.04 (includes tax) for a package by mail. Burrell-Dugger Co., Columbus, Mo., Indianapolis, Ind.

FEDERAL RESERVE BANK SUBSTITUTES 7 PER CENT

substituted, effective November 1, 1920, of which the member banks will be notified today. Federal Reserve bank officials are of the opinion that, while to laymen technical points as regards the change will mean little, bankers throughout this section, particularly country bankers, will hail them with delight. They felt that credit lines will be loosened, and some bankers consulted were of the opinion that the holding and financing movement for southern cotton, long in the public eye as one of the most momentous problems of the state and section, will be given immeasurable impetus.

Twofold Effect.

The effect upon the banks who borrow from the federal reserve bank, they declared, here will be twofold:

First—The average rate of interest being paid by borrowing banks under the old basic rate of 6 per cent, with progressive rates after the basic line amount has been exceeded, which bank officials said could run as high as 10 and 12 per cent, will be greatly lowered. This is gathered from the opinion of bankers and financiers who have expressed their opinion along the line indicated.

Vaudeville and Movies Shown At Children's Masquerade

Vaudeville and mystery, movies and dancing were some of the delightful features of Miss Frances Howard's party last night at the Druid Hills club, when she entertained a hundred of her young friends. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard, with a group of friends, assisted in the entertaining, and color, music and happiness made the evening a memorable one.

On the landing of the staircase, a ghost with a spotlight on its forehead, pointed the way to the dressing rooms, and the Halloween symbolism was expressed with elaboration.

At one end of the ballroom was painted a scene from the story of the adventures of a young girl, and a door into the witch's house led all the guests into a series of adventures, among which were a chamber of horrors, with contrast in a mirror room, and a skeleton extended its hand to be shaken. The other end of the room was fitted up as a theater, with a stage, on which a cinema show was shown, and then vaudeville and movies were shown. There was general dancing, and colored flickering lights thrown on the company, and the evening was a success, for all the young folks were the local Reserve bank will be placed on a single basis of 7 per cent, and the untold complications and uncertainty accompanying borrowing under the old system will be eliminated. Under the new plan, bankers will know exactly what their accommodation is costing them, and the normal discount rate will not be passed along by the member banks to the shoulders of the borrower.

The technical ruling governing borrowing of member banks from the Federal Reserve Bank, as explained by the Atlanta Reserve bank, when 6 per cent was the basic rate and the basic line and progressive rates were in effect, follows:

Building Is Explained. "The normal or basic line of a member bank shall be determined by the following formula: Five per cent of the average reserve balance maintained by the member bank during the preceding reserve computation period, plus the investment of the member bank in the capital of the Federal Reserve Bank, multiplied by two and one-half. The resulting amount shall constitute the basic line. The normal discount rate extended to member banks up to and including this basic amount will be the normal discount rate in effect at the time paper is submitted. The progressive rates will be applied on the basis of an accommodation in excess of the basic amount granted to member banks during the current reserve computation period.

"Whenever advances to a member bank shall be appraised by the finance chairman, the basic line, such advances shall be subject to a progressive rate, which bank officials said would be applied to all maturities. Such progressive rates will be applied on the following basis:

"For the first 25 per cent or any part thereof above the normal or basic line, one-half of one per cent per annum above the normal rate.

"For the second 25 per cent or any part thereof above the normal or basic line, one per cent per annum above the normal rate.

"And so on at an increasing rate of one-half of one per cent per annum for each additional 25 per cent or any part thereof above the normal or basic line."

the constitution. New York wants the Volstead act tempered and milder to leak a little. The recent defeat of Congressmen Volstead for re-nomination in Minnesota indicates the temper of mind in the non-prohibition states. While democrats and republicans, in their platforms, and on the stump, are pretty evenly matched on prohibition, yet in the north, democracy has long been looked upon as kindly disposed to whiskey. The average New York voter wants his prescription filled without too much restraint and will

The Restless Sex

BY ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

She clasped him arm with both hands and rested her head on his shoulder; and went on talking in a staid and more subdued voice: "I didn't write you about it; I was very sure you wouldn't approve. And my head was stuffed full of modernism and liberty and urge and the necessity for self-expression. I felt that I had a perfect right to enjoy myself. And then came trouble. It always does. Oswald's father, Chilton Grimmer, came to the hospital one day, terribly wrought up and looking glum. "My aunt had gone to New York to consult a specialist, but he asked for me, and I came down to the private reception room. I was a graduate nurse then. Oh, Jim!—I was so scared until he saw that I was. Then he was fearfully harsh with me. He told me that my aunt was about to begin suit against him to recover some money—a great deal of money—which my aunt pretended I should have inherited from my father's estate."

"He said we were two adventures and that he would expose the whole thing, and that I should be a disgrace to my family. A snob checked her, she rested in his arms, breathing fast and irregularly, then, recovering self-control:

"I was bewildered. I told him I didn't want his money. But there was in his eyes a terror which I could see there even when he was upbraiding and threatening me most violently. I didn't know what to do. I wanted to go back to my ward, but he followed me and held the door closed, and I had to listen to the terrible, shameful things he said about my mother and myself."

"I was in tears, and Mr. Grimmer's face was white and distorted, as though something had broken in his mind. He couldn't recover the mobility of his features. He drew me to him and said to me: 'I didn't want to hear of this. I cried out, protesting that I didn't wish any of his money. He went away with his face all twisted.'"

"I can't tell you, dear, I am not at liberty to tell you. . . . He died—suddenly—a week later. My aunt was ill at the time and I don't know what he said to her by an order. It was handed to her a terrible shock to her. She was sick and weak, but she got up and went to her room. . . . I was frightened. . . . And, . . . and my aunt died as he thought she should. . . . She died a week later. . . . I took our studio to New York. . . . I saw Oswald every day. He had inherited a great deal of money. We went about it. And Jim, the very devil was in me to roam everywhere with him and see things and explore the part of the world we could cover in his touring car. All the gypsy instinct born in me, all the tendency to irresponsible wandering and idle pleasure suddenly seemed to develop and demand satisfaction. . . . Oswald was a dear. He was in love with me; I knew it. He didn't want to go on those escapades with me; but I pulled him into it. And it got to a point beyond all bounds; the more recklessly we went about the keener my delight in risking everything for the sake of unconventional amusement. Twice we were caught out so far from New York that he had to drive all night to get into town. And then, what was he expected to do? Our car broke down when it meant a fight away from the studio with Oswald. And the very device was to pay, too, for in the Ten Jack the shore, some 75 feet away. The two frightened girls clung to the neck of their rescuer, and the trio went under the surface several times.

ATLANTA GIRL GIVEN CARNEGIE HERO MEDAL

Reach Struggling Girls.
Judge Ben H. Hill and Robert Scott, a life-guard, had seen the situation and by this time had been able to reach the struggling girls, separate them and allow Miss Goldsmith to swim 25 feet to wadeable water. Both of the girls were unconscious, but afterward revived.

The report rendered by the commission on Grover C. Hunter and Walker O. Lindsey was as follows: "Grover C. Hunter, 707 Vernon street, LaGrange, Ga., silver medal. Hunter was a dentist, aged 34, when he attempted to save J. Thomas Carter, aged 3 years, from drowning at LaGrange, June 15, 1918. The boy had fallen into an abandoned well 75 feet deep, containing seven feet of water. With no men present and no rope at hand, Hunter, who was suffering from serious injuries received in an accident, descended the well by holding to the sides and stepping in recesses in the sides of the clay walls.

"He slipped once about ten feet, and considerable clay fell. Some men then arrived with a rope and lowered a rick to Hunter, who was sitting on a ledge nine feet from the bottom. He raised Carter from the water, but the boy was dead. The body was raised to the top with the rope, and then Hunter fastened a line to the boy's head, arms and part of his back were exposed; he was also seriously hurt but not maimed. He extricated himself and was raised to the top in a bucket, but re-entered the well and died. The body was then drawn up. Two small portions of the well caved in while Lindsey was on the bottom of the well, 30 feet deep, when a part of the wall caved in on them. Dorsey's legs were caught in the timbers and he was partially buried. Mapp was completely buried, and Lindsey was on his back but did not die. However, he felt weak and was forced to leave the well. He went home again in an effort to save Mapp, but could not locate him and came to the top. Another cave-in occurred later, and Mapp was found when he was found."

said: "This loving a young man to a disturbing business to a girl who just learned how. . . . Are you sending upstairs?"

"Suppose so?" "Probably not a wink, Steve." "Wonder if I shall." They ascended the old staircase together in silence. At her door she held but her hand; he kissed it, released the fingers, but they closed around his and she drew him to her. "What shall I do?" she said. "Tell me."

"I don't know, dearest. There seems to be nothing you can do for us." She bent her head thoughtfully. "Anything that dishonors me would dishonor you and dad, wouldn't it, Jim?"

She nodded. "You understand, don't you? I count myself as nothing. Only you count, Jim. But I can't marry you. And I can't go to you otherwise without betraying both dad and you. It is a question of my being married and of loving you enough to disregard it. . . . But you and dad require more than that of the girl you made one of your own race. I am loyal to what you both expect of me. . . . Good night, dear."

"There doesn't seem to be any way I can make you happy. Only one way I can show my love and gratitude to dad and you is to retain your respect by being unkind—Jim—my dearest—dearest."

She closed her eyes and gave him her lips, slipped swiftly out of his arms and into her room. "That is why I can't tell you another person's secret. . . . It would be dishonorable. And even if I told you, I'd be afraid to ask him for my freedom."

"You mean he would not let you divorce him?"

"Oh, no, I don't mean that! That is the terrible part of it! He would give me my freedom. But I don't want it—that way—not on the—not on such terms."

They walked slowly toward the house together, she leaning on him as though very tired. Ahead of them a few fireflies were seen in the rushing roar of the river was in their ears all the way to the house. "Helen is waiting for you," she said for them on the library table.

Forgive me, but I've yawned my head off—because you're so tired. I'm out star-gazing, but because I'm in my right mind and I'm really waiting for you to look up!"

Stephanie laughed, and they hunted up the cat, discovered her asleep in the best room, and bore her out to the veranda. Then Cleveland locked up white Stephanie waited for him. Her tears had dried. She was a trifle pale and languid in her movements, but so lovely that Cleveland, already hopelessly in love with her, felt deeper as he looked at her in this pale and unfamiliar phase.

Her gray eyes returned his adoration sweetly, peacefully humorous: "I'm in rage, emotionally," she
